Hello Garnet. We are still seeing the need for the two sessions with you but am thinking the dates (November 12th and December 2nd) would need to be changed. I know we talked last about bringing groups in to see how they were doing with standards based grading and this still would be a goal, but I have one other group in particular I would like your assistance with. It might be easier if we talked about this. Would you have some time next week on Tuesday morning around 8:30-8:45? Thank you!

Hello Garnet. Not sure if it snowed up in your neck of the woods or not, but did down here...snow on halloween!

Yes...we would still want to work in the next two days but am thinking we might need to push at least the November 12th date back. I know you are busy as well at this time so my goal is to talk more about the structure and function of the next two days we have with you with our principals. I meet with them on November 14th so this would push back our November 12th date. After I meet with the principals on the 12th I can connect back with you to confirm the December 2nd date and work to find another date. I am still thinking about targeting specific high school and middle school courses to be part of the two days so we can ask them what their thoughts, questions, concerns are at this point related to SBG and provide them some time to review each other's curriculum.

How does this sound to you?

Hello Garnet! Yes...we need to connect soon to verify plans. I am thinking that November 12th might be a little too soon as I am seeing many of the same teachers working on task forces now that would be ones coming for our planned follow up sessions. Just concerned about the amount of time away from classrooms. I still need to talk more about the logistics of the sessions with high school administration (not as worried about middle school).

I am scheduled to talk with the high school administrators this week. After this, I will get back with you so we can confirm a day/time for our planning.

Looking forward to this opportunity to connect with teachers and time for some articulation.

Thanks Garnet.

This is great! It deals with both the efforts to get students into and successfully through credit bearing math AND shows us that major colleges are using standards based practices! This is a gem!

Hello Garnet. Hope you and your family had an enjoyable holiday weekend. I just wanted to share the presentation we used last school year for our courses that were planning to transition into standards based learning and grading. I have made a few minor addition/changes from the District perspective but would plan on using the same material and information that was used last school year.

Look forward to connecting this week on Wednesday at 10:00 A.M. Thanks!

Hello Garnet. Hope this reaches you well and you are enjoying the summer time!

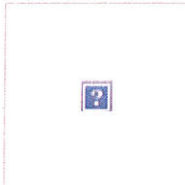

I am in the process of confirming dates on my calendar for the new school year now that our District meetings and trainings have been confirmed, and realize two of our dates for SBG meetings conflict. They are September 19th and November 14th.

Could we look at other dates for these that are close to the other ones we had agreed on?

If you would want to touch base by phone about this that would be good as well.

Thanks!
